

Building Services and Maintenance Solutions for Schools and Colleges

Ensure Your Premises Meet the Legal Requirements

With a busy school to manage, and a duty of care to pupils, teachers and staff, you need to ensure that your building services are regularly maintained and meet the requirements of current legislation.

Are you confident that if a fire breaks out your alarms and sprinklers actually work?

Did you realise that if your boilers are not serviced by a recognised and qualified engineer each year, you are breaking the law and your insurance is invalid?

To keep children safe from scalding, your mixer taps are set at an ideal temperature, but this also encourages legionella so they need to be regularly checked to make sure the system is clear.

Avoid the Unnecessary

The cost of a breakdown in your building services is not only a potential financial drain. It's also highly disruptive to the smooth running of the school and an inconvenience to parents.

If the unimaginable does happen, you want to be confident that a trained engineer is on hand to deal with the problem, enabling you to minimise the down time, and get the school back up and running.

A regular service gives you more control as well as advanced notice for when an item might be coming up for repair or replacement, meaning you can budget accordingly.
